(OWN News Service.)
Tokio, March 17.—Hundreds of persons are believed to have been killed and millions of dollars' worth of property destroyed in Akita, chief city of Ugo province, as a result of an earthquake that shook a wide section in the valley of the River Omo, according to belated reports of the disaster received here. The dead may number 400. Thousands of the inhabitants fled in terror.

Tumbling houses set fire to the village of Kitameno, near Akita, and the whole town burned. The inhabitants fled to the banks of the river, many of them burned so seriously that they died. Others plunged into the water and were drowned. Still others were caught in fissures formed when the earth opened. Many suffered death in the flames that swept the village.

One Hundred Bodies Recovered.
How many persons died in other sections of the Omo valley probably will not become known for several days.

The bodies of more than 100 victims have been recovered. Three hundred miners, it is feared, died in the copper workings at Tsunmadato which crumbled in the quake.

The Omo river runs northwesterly through the province of Ugo and empties into the Sea of Japan at Tsuchizaki Minato, the port of Akita. There are in the vicinity of the city of Akita, in the hills surrounding the basin of the Omo, scores of villages and hamlets, and fear is expressed for the safety of hundreds of the inhabitants of them.

Volcano Is in Eruption.
Simultaneous with the earthquake the volcano Asama Yama went into eruption. There were virtually no preliminary explosions, but with loud detonations came flames and smoke from the crater.

A state of terror was created in territory surrounding the volcano for miles. The inhabitants fled hastily, many leaving their household possessions behind in the panic. As yet there has been no flow of lava, but the superstitious natives predict a great disaster.

Missionaries are preparing to go into the district in Ugo affected by the earthquake and into the territory surrounding the volcano. The two are widely separated. Asama Yama is 90 miles northwest of this city. Ugo province is in the northwestern part of Japan.

A telephone message received at the Tribune office from someone giving his name as Matt Morrison, states that the Rex Roller Skating Rink has been converted into a terpsichorean retreat for the descendants of Ham, and that under the new regime a most delightful function, attended by an enthusiastic and cheerful gathering of dark-skinned residents was given Monday night. Everybody present seemed to have an enjoyable time, and many of them expressed their intentions of leading their presence when opportunity offered, and the management was assured of the hearty co-operation and support of the colored population generally.

The informant further stated that a few stuck up white people by the name of Madden and Wheeler and a few others who were envious of the colored folks occupying the place, but that he felt sure that those high dissenting views could be safely overcome and the programme as arranged for frequent and regular colored dancing parties would prevail.

(OWN News Service.)
Mayfield, Ky., March 17.—Miss May Copeland and her admirer, Lucien Turk, charged jointly with the murder of Hugh Atchison, her brother-in-law, were found not guilty by a jury. The first trial of the case resulted in a disagreement.

Atchison was killed in his home near Bardwell, Ky., about midnight, July 24. Miss Copeland admitted she fired the fatal shot, but declared she aimed the revolver over her shoulder as she fled from Atchison. He was killed by a bullet in the heart and it was the contention of the prosecution that Miss Copeland confessed to the killing to shield Turk, who was near the scene.

Admits Previous Attack.
Miss Copeland said that she and Turk drove up to the house in a buggy and that when she went inside to get some clothing her brother-in-law demanded to know if she had revealed the facts of an attack which she asserts he made on her the previous week. She testified that when she denied that she had done so he jumped from a bed where he was lying and started toward her.

Miss Copeland said that it was then that she ran and fired at her kinsman as she fled.

As Atchison staggered into the hall way where his wife was, Miss Copeland continued her flight to the buggy, and then drove to this city.

Cigarette Butts Suspicious.
Miss Copeland said that she had previously told Turk of the attack she alleges Atchison made on her. She says that she was in a bathroom in his home when he broke in and overpowered her. She left his home at once, and it was when she returned for her clothing that the killing occurred.

The pistol with which the killing was done, she said, she had owned only a short time.

Accusation against Turk followed the finding of numerous cigarette butts in Atchison's yard, near where he was killed. It was declared the cigarettes were of the same kind that Turk smoked, and an effort was made to show that he entered the Atchison yard, instead of remaining in the buggy, as Miss Copeland contended.

In giving to the public Harold MacGrath's thrilling new story, "The Adventures of Kathlyn," at the same time that is dramatized version will be shown at The Princess the leading moving picture theater, The Tribune is doing something which no newspaper has ever done before. It is giving you an experience entirely new. This remarkable series of pictures depicting "The Adventures of Kathlyn" is undoubtedly the most fascinating and most elaborate series ever shown on the motion picture stage. It will require 13 separate "shows" with two full length reels at each show, to present the whole story. Two new reels in the "Kathlyn" series will appear at the Princess theater every two weeks, beginning March 19, and the "Adventures" shown in each reel will be covered by a chapter of the story published in THE DAILY TRIBUNE at approximately the same time.

This is the first time you have ever been able to read a great novel and at the same time see its leading characters true to life in one of the greatest scenic productions ever attempted on the moving picture stage. And it is also the first time you have ever been able to view a thrilling moving picture series, and at the same time follow the story in serial form from week to week—a story written by one of our most famous and popular novelists.

Be sure you get the Tribune, and read the second last issue of "The Adventures of Kathlyn."
